

COME BACK TO SCHOOL.

A CHILD NEEDS YOU.

NEW YORK CITY

SCHOOL VOLUNTEER PROGRAM INC.

BUILDING TOMORROW'S NEW YORK, CHILD BY CHILD

HELP WANTED

Our children and our public schools need your help. Join the many dedicated New Yorkers from all walks of life who are volunteering to:

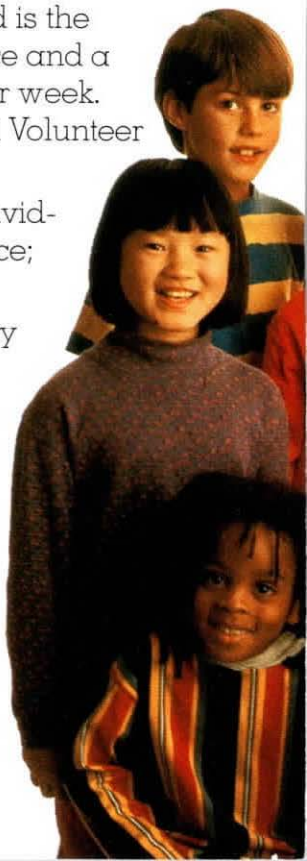

- tutor students in grades from kindergarten through high school in reading, writing, mathematics and English as a second language;
- prepare high school students to meet graduation and college entry requirements;
- read aloud to children;
- assist in the classroom and library.

NO EXPERIENCE NECESSARY

All you need to get started is the desire to make a difference and a minimum of two hours per week. The New York City School Volunteer Program will:

- train you to provide individualized tutorial assistance;
- place you in a public elementary or secondary school near your home or office (evening assignments in high schools are available);
- support you along the way with instructional materials and guidance.

EXCELLENT BENEFITS

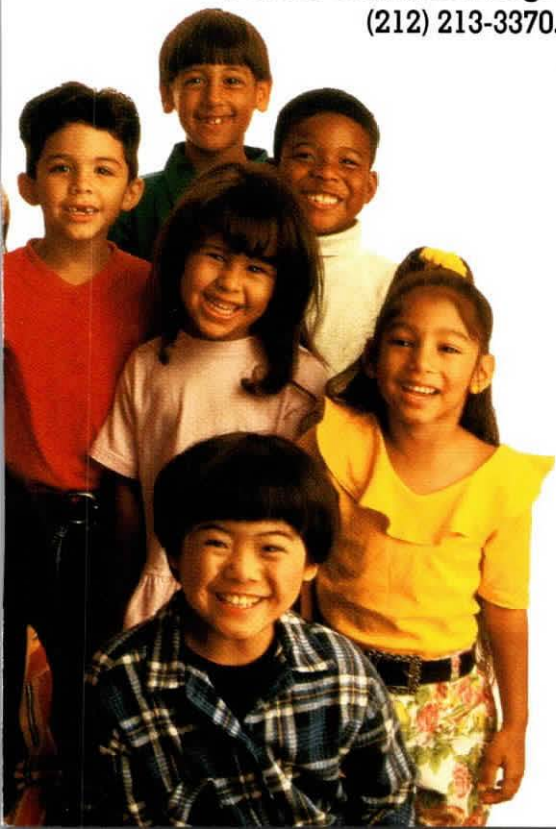

When New Yorkers go back to school, everyone benefits:

- students gain academic skills, confidence and self-esteem;
- School Volunteers learn new skills and experience the joy of giving;
- schools become "smaller" and more personal;
- our city has a brighter future.

In public schools throughout New York City, School Volunteers are needed to help get the job done! For more information on becoming a School Volunteer—including details on application, screening and training requirements—call the New York City

WORKING NEW YORKERS

Considering traditional school hours, how can you possibly manage to volunteer in the classroom?

If you work, free time is especially precious. But the New York City School Volunteer Program, Inc. makes it easy to volunteer. Our program:

- provides day or evening training sessions;
- offers day or evening school assignments in a public school near your home or workplace;
- requires a minimum commitment of only two hours per week.

With little or no change in your work schedule, you can help prepare our children for the future, serve as a professional role model, and find fulfillment above and beyond your career.

Join the many New Yorkers who are making a difference as School Volunteers.

THE NEW YORK CITY SCHOOL VOLUNTEER PROGRAM, INC.

Since its founding in 1956 as the first program of its kind in the nation, the New York City School Volunteer Program, Inc. has recruited, trained and placed tens of thousands of volunteers. They, in turn, have served more than one million public school students. In addition to taking part in the core tutorial program, interested volunteers may participate in specialized programs that:

- introduce children to the joy of reading through Read Aloud workshops with published authors;
- lead students in seminar discussions of contemporary, multi-cultural literature;
- offer parents tips on reading to their pre-school children;
- help students master high school subjects and plan for college;
- help teens assume leadership roles as tutors to elementary school students;
- introduce students to New York City's major museums.
